Self Directed Consulting.

I came up with a new consulting service offering recently: Self Directed Consulting – SDC. I have been implementing Self Directed Learning initiatives and I have and I still am, conducting basic research too.

What is Self Directed Learning?

In its broadest meaning, self-directed learning describes a process in which individuals take the initiative, with or without the help of others, in diagnosing their learning needs, formulating learning goals, identifying human and material resources for learning, choosing and implementing appropriate learning strategies, and evaluating learning outcomes.

I underlined a few segments from the definition above. Research has shown that self directed learners can excel in countless fields of endeavor. If you were to do some self directed learning to find out about the benefits and the skills gained from self directed learning, you will see that these benefits and skills can apply to entrepreneurs, scientists, artists and in countless fields, as mentioned earlier. When you study the aforementioned fields you will come to discover, initiative is one of the traits required for success in these fields.

In this day and age there are virtually infinite resources available online and offline – through human interaction. I have used self directed consulting for myself on countless occasions. I have sent myself e-mails with the pertinent info to research and I have created PDF files and other types of electronic documents with this type of data as well.

I can direct clients to the areas they would benefit from taking part in self directed learning with.
This work can be done via E-consulting methods.
